

MANY BULLETS FLY IN GOPHER HUNT; 'OWNEY' IS TAKEN

Madden, Youthful Leader of West Side "Gang," Charged With Murder of Rival.

"Owny the Killer," at nineteen the leader of a Gopher Gang and a terror on the west side, is in the hands of the law, who to-day are trying to get the witnesses for a murder prosecution, that promises to be of moment to the predatory population.

"Owny" is the gang name for Owen Madden of No. 45 West Thirty-eighth street. He was charged with the murder of William Madden on the night of Feb. 3 that the boy was now holding him. Henshaw, Madden's girl, a dance at the Westside Opera House. When the news of this daring conduct Madden he went over to Ninth avenue and Sixth street to investigate. Henshaw and the girl were getting on a trolley car when some one shot Henshaw. He was taken to the New York Hospital. Before he died, in contravention of gang ethics, he "aquealed." "Owny shot me," he told the police. Then "Owny" disappeared. He had been previously charged with killing a girl named Margaret, who was shot at Seventh avenue on the night of Sept. 10. Madden had declined to join a strike at a soap factory and the strikers, it is alleged, induced "Owny" to make the non-striker see things in the proper light. The police were never able to get the witnesses to testify against Madden. ESCAPE FROM ROOF WHEN DETECTIVES APPEAR.

Detectives Mortality, Mundo and Shibley were assigned to find Madden after the Henshaw killing. They worked with no result for a week. Yesterday afternoon a small "stool pigeon" came along with the whispered tip that Madden was at his home. When the three detectives reached the house they found the gang leader on the roof with three friends. The detectives ran to the roof, but the young men had swung themselves to the fire-escape and vanished.

The detectives waited in front of the house. In an hour the gang leader appeared. He saw the waiting detectives and started to run. All three opened fire. The bullets missed their mark and Madden led the detectives a merry chase to Eleventh avenue. There a freight train was loitering along after the leisurely fashion of freight trains in that vicinity. Madden darted under the train at the risk of his life. The detectives followed. They indulged in a little more target practice in the railroad yard with no effect.

Dodging in and out among trains, Madden at length found refuge in a watchman's shanty. The detectives ordered him to come out. The gangster drew a knife and invited them to come and get him.

"We will riddle the shanty with bullets if you don't come out," chorused the detectives. Madden emerged. "If I had had a gun you would not have got me," he told his captors. Madden was arraigned to-day before Magistrate O'Connor in West Side Court and held without bail to await the verdict of the coroner's inquest. He seemed rather to enjoy the importance of his position in court and showed his amusement as the detectives told the Magistrate their side of the story. The principal witness against Madden is Policeman McAvoy of the West Forty-seventh street station, who was on the car when Henshaw was shot. He will testify that he saw Madden do the shooting, that he pursued Madden several blocks and lost him in the darkness.

According to the police, the shooting of Henshaw is the outcome of the splitting of the old Gopher gang into two divisions after Bert O'Brien gave up the leadership. Tom Sullivan headed one branch and Madden the other and there was bad blood between them. Madden is said to have threatened to "get" Sullivan and it is believed members of the Sullivan faction tipped the police off to Madden's whereabouts. Coroner Winterbottom examined the prisoner briefly and remanded him to the Tombs.

A Word of Caution About Some Chiffon Taffetas That May Be Offered You

Be careful when you buy Chiffon Taffetas or your experience may be expensive. No other silk is so liable to deception in dye and finish. It readily responds to chemical swelling so as to reduce the quantity of pure silk that it should contain. When such spurious silk is made up, it goes into holes and cracks at the first touch of wear—and even if the store does make some restitution, how about the cost of the dressmaking and all the annoyance and trouble? Now that Chiffon Taffetas are fashionable, the market is sure to contain these inferior qualities and old stocks—so, we say, be careful.

Pure-Dye Chiffon Taffeta $1.38
THE Chiffon Taffetas offered you here are pure dye only—constructed for wear and appearance, as regards lustre, touch and texture. Such variety of color blendings was never before assembled in a showing to the wearer. As manufacturers we know exactly what we make and sell. We mean to earn and to keep your confidence.

Take our Chiffon Taffeta at $1.38, guaranteed all silk and pure dye. Compare its quality with those sold elsewhere at $2.00 and upwards, and NOT pure dyed. First cost and last cost combine to make this the greatest silk store in the world.
